

TOWN&COUNTRY

The Best Places To Go in March

An under-the-radar Caribbean island, a quaint getaway for wine lovers, and other destinations that'll inspire your next trip.

by LINDSAY SILBERMAN FEB 7, 2018

Dublin, Ireland

GETTY IMAGES

Head to Ireland's capital for the ultimate bucket list experience in mid-March: St. Patrick's Day. The city comes to life with a five-day festival that kicks off on Thursday, March 15. On Saturday, March 17, central Dublin's Temple Bar neighborhood plays host to the annual St. Patrick's Day parade—a decidedly raucous event complete with costumes, overflowing pints, and packed pubs. While you're in town, pay homage to Irish tradition by visiting the Jameson Distillery and the Guinness Storehouse. For those who prefer a quieter trip, book a room at The K Club's Straffan House, a 19th century chateau-style villa just 30 minutes outside the city.

BOOK NOW The K Club