Traveling on a budget doesn't have to mean skimping on style. From coast to coast and throughout the interior cities, Mexico is dotted with an array of cheap but chic accommodations. Even some well-known properties can be surprisingly good places to find value.

With a budget of $250 or less per night, here are some of the coolest places to enjoy unique style around Mexico.

Guadalajara

You just might think you've stepped out of the city and into a historic hacienda when checking into Quinta Real Guadalajara, a luxurious property in the heart of Mexico's second-largest city.

Its lush grounds are graced with original sculptures, and the spacious rooms are well-appointed with oversized bathrooms and furnishings worthy of a European villa. Yet for all its indulgent peacefulness, it's centrally located in the city and has room rates as low as $155.
